Rule 5. Rule 6. In determining an issue to which the preceding Rules do not apply, the Court shall apply the principles of the common law that will do substantial justice between the parties, having regard to equity and good conscience.

Rule 7. Subject to the directions that the Supreme Court may give in the exercise of its powers under article 132 of the Constitution, in the determination of an issue arising from the common law, the Court may adopt, develop and apply the remedies from a system of

PART FIVE

Enforcement of Foreign Judgments and Maintenance Orders

Foreign Judgments

81. Application of sections 81 to 88

(1) Where the President is satisfied that, in the event of the benefits conferred by this section and sections 82 to 88 being extended to judgments given in the superior courts of a foreign country, substantial reciprocity of treatment will be assured in respect of the enforcement in that country of judgments given in the Superior Court of Judicature of Ghana, the President may, by legislative instrument, order

- (a) that this section and sections 82 to 88 shall extend to that country, and
- (b) that the courts of that country which are specified in the instrument shall be the superior courts of that country for the purposes of sections 82 to 88.

(2) A judgment of a superior court of a foreign country to which a legislative instrument under subsection (1) extends, other than a judgment of the Court given on an appeal from a court which is not a superior court, shall be a judgment to which this section and sections 82 to 88 apply, if

- (a) it is final and conclusive between the parties, and
- (b) there is payable under it a sum of money which is not a sum payable in respect of taxes or any other charges of a similar nature or in respect of a fine or any other penalty, and
- (c) it is given after the coming into operation of the instrument directing that sections 81 to 88 shall extend to that country.

(3) For the purposes of this section, a foreign judgment is final and conclusive although an appeal may be pending against it or that it may still be subject to appeal in the courts of the country of the original court.

82. Registration of judgment

(1) A judgment creditor under a foreign judgment may apply to the High Court to have the foreign judgment registered.

(2) The application for registration of the foreign judgment shall be made within six years after the date of the judgment or where there has been an appeal, after the last judgment given in those proceedings.

(3) The High Court may order the foreign judgment to be registered subject to proof of the prescribed matters and the provisions of this Act in respect of foreign judgments.

(4) A foreign judgment shall not be registered if at the date of the application,

- (a) it has been wholly satisfied, or
- (b) it could not be enforced by execution in the country of the original court.

(5) Subject to section 83 with respect to the setting aside of a registration,

- (a) a registered foreign judgment shall, for the purposes of execution, be of the same force and effect,
- (b) proceedings may be taken on a registered foreign judgment,
- (c) the sum of money for which a foreign judgment is registered shall carry interest, and
- (d) the registering court shall have the same control over the execution of a registered foreign judgment, as if the foreign judgment had been a judgment originally given in the registering court and entered on the date of registration.

(6) Execution shall not issue on the foreign judgment under this Act or the Rules of Court made in pursuance of it,

- (a) where it is competent for a party to make an application to have the registration of the foreign judgment set aside, or,
- (b) where an application is made, until after the application has been finally determined.

(7) Where the sum of money payable under a foreign judgment which is to be registered is expressed in a currency other than the currency of Ghana the foreign judgment shall be registered as if it were a judgment of a sum of money in the currency of Ghana based on the rate of bank exchange prevailing at the date of the foreign judgment of the original court.

(8) Where at the date of the application for registration, the foreign judgment has been partly satisfied, the judgment shall not be registered in respect of the whole sum of money payable under the foreign judgment but only in respect of the balance remaining payable at that date.

(9) Where, on an application for the registration of a foreign judgment, it appears to the registering court that the judgment is in respect of different matters and that some of the provisions of the judgment are of a nature that if those provisions had been contained in separate judgments those judgments could properly have been registered, the foreign judgment may be registered in respect of those that could be registered but not in respect of any other provisions contained in it.

(10) In addition to the sum of money payable under the foreign judgment and the interest due up to the time of registration by the law of the country of the original court, the following costs shall also be paid:

- (a) the reasonable costs of, and incidental to, registration of the judgment, and
- (b) the costs of obtaining a certified copy of the judgment from the original court.

83. Setting aside of registered judgments

(1) On an application made by a party against whom a registered foreign judgment may be enforced, the registration of the foreign judgment

- (a) shall be set aside if the registering court is satisfied
 - (i) that the foreign judgment is not a judgment to which this Act applies or was registered in contravention of this Act, or
 - (ii) that the original court did not have jurisdiction in the case, or
 - (iii) that the foreign judgment debtor, being the defendant in the proceedings in the original court, did not, although process may have been duly served on the judgment debtor in accordance with the law of the country of the original court, receive notice of those proceedings in sufficient time to enable the judgment debtor to defend the proceedings and did not appear, or
 - (iv) that the foreign judgment was obtained by fraud, or
 - (v) that the enforcement of the foreign judgment would be contrary to public policy in Ghana; or

- (b) may be set aside if the registering court is satisfied that the matter in dispute in the proceedings in the original court had prior to the date of the foreign judgment in the original court been the subject of a final and conclusive judgment by a court that had jurisdiction in the matter.

(2) For the purpose of this section, the original court shall, subject to subsection (3), be deemed to have had jurisdiction

- (a) in the case of a foreign judgment given in an action in personam
 - (i) where the judgment debtor, being a defendant in the original court, submitted to the jurisdiction of that court by voluntarily appearing in the proceedings otherwise than for the purpose of protecting, or obtaining the release of property seized, or threatened with seizure, in the proceedings or of contesting the jurisdiction of that court, or
 - (ii) where the judgment debtor was plaintiff in, or counterclaimed in, the proceedings in the original court, or
 - (iii) where the judgment debtor, being a defendant in the original court had, before the commencement of the proceedings agreed, in respect of the subject matter of the proceedings, to submit to the jurisdiction of that court or of the courts of that country, or
 - (iv) where the judgment debtor, being a defendant in the original court, was at the time when the proceedings were instituted resident in, or being a body corporate had its principal place of business in, the country of that court, or
 - (v) where the judgment debtor, being a defendant in the original court, had an office or place of business in the country of that court and the proceedings in that court were in respect of a transaction effected through or at that office or place;
- (b) in the case of a foreign judgment given in an action of which the subject matter was immovable property or in an action in rem of which the subject matter was movable property, where the property in question was at the time of the proceedings in the original court situated in the country of that court; or
- (c) in the case of a foreign judgment given in an action other than an action referred to in paragraph (a) or (b) of this subsection, where the jurisdiction of the original court is recognised by the law of the registering court.

(3) Notwithstanding anything in subsection (2), the original Court, for the purposes of this Act, does not have jurisdiction

- (a) where the subject matter of the proceedings was immovable property outside the country of the original court; or
- (b) except as provided in subparagraphs (i), (ii) and (iii) of paragraph (a) and paragraph (c) of subsection (2), where bringing the proceedings in the original court was contrary to an agreement under which the dispute in question was to be settled otherwise than by proceedings in the courts of the country of that court; or
- (c) where the judgment debtor, being a defendant in the original proceedings, was a person who under the rules of public international law was entitled to immunity from the jurisdiction of the courts of the country of the original court and did not submit to the jurisdiction of the court.

84. Application to set aside registration

(1) Where the applicant on an application to set aside the registration of a foreign judgment satisfies the registering court

- (a) that an appeal is pending, or
- (b) that the applicant is entitled, and intends, to appeal,

the registering Court may set aside the registration or adjourn the application until the expiry of a time the court considers necessary to enable the applicant to have the appeal disposed of by a competent tribunal.

(2) Where the registration of a foreign judgment is set aside under subsection (1), or solely for the reason that the foreign judgment was not at the date of the application for registration enforceable by execution in the country of the original court, the setting aside of the registration shall not prejudice a further application to register the foreign judgment when the appeal has been disposed of, or when the foreign judgment becomes enforceable by execution in the country of the original court.

(3) Where the registration of a foreign judgment is set aside because the judgment was registered for the whole sum of money payable under it, even though at the date of the application for the registration of the foreign judgment it has been partly satisfied, the registering court shall order the foreign judgment to be registered for the outstanding balance payable at the date of the application by the judgment creditor.

85. Foreign judgments which are not enforceable otherwise

Proceedings for the recovery of a sum of money payable under a foreign judgment, being a judgment to which this Act applies other than proceedings by way of registration of the judgment, shall not be entertained by a Court.

86. General effect of certain foreign judgments

(1) Subject to this section, a foreign judgment to which this Act applies or would have applied if a sum of money had been payable under it, shall be recognised in a Court as conclusive between the parties to it in proceedings founded on the same cause of action and may be relied upon as a defence or counterclaim in those proceedings.

(2) Subsection (1) applies whether the foreign judgment can be registered, is registered or is not registered.

(3) This section does not apply in the case of a foreign judgment,

- (a) where the judgment has been registered and the registration has been set aside on a ground other than
 - (i) that a sum of money was not payable under the judgment, or
 - (ii) that the judgment had been wholly or partly satisfied, or
 - (iii) that at the date of the application the judgment could not be enforced by execution in the country of the original court; or
- (b) where the foreign judgment has not been registered and it is shown, whether it could have been registered or not, that if it had been registered, the registration would have been set aside on application, on a ground other than those specified in paragraph (a).

87. Foreign judgments unenforceable if no reciprocity

Where it appears to the President that the treatment in respect of recognition and enforcement accorded by the court of a country to judgments given in a superior court of Ghana is substantially less favourable than that accorded by the Courts of Ghana to judgments of the superior courts of that country, the President may, by legislative instrument, order that proceedings shall not be entertained in a Court in Ghana for the recovery of a sum of money alleged to be payable under a foreign judgment given in a court of that country.

88. Issue of certificates of judgments obtained in Ghana

(1) Where a foreign judgment for a sum of money which is not for taxes or similar charges, or is not a fine or any other penalty, is entered by the High Court against a person, and the judgment creditor wants to enforce the judgment in a country to which a legislative instrument made under section 81 applies, the judgment creditor may apply to the Court in Ghana to issue to the judgment creditor a certified copy of the judgment, together with a certificate containing the particulars with respect to the action, including the cause of action, and the rate of interest payable on the sum of money under the foreign judgment that may be prescribed by the court that gave the judgment.

(2) Where execution of a foreign judgment is stayed for a period pending an appeal or for any other reason, an application shall not be made under this section with respect to the foreign judgment until the expiration of that period.

Maintenance Orders

89. Application of sections 89 to 97

(1) This section and sections 90 to 97 shall apply to a foreign country in respect of which the President, having regard to reciprocal provisions under the law of that country directs, by legislative instrument, the application of this and those sections.

(2) Where the President is satisfied that the law of a foreign country to which a legislative instrument made under subsection (1) applies does not contain reciprocal provisions in relation to maintenance orders, the President may revoke the legislative instrument.

90. Registration of foreign maintenance orders
